To whom it may concern,

I'm writing this email as a concerned citizen of saskatchewan with they way this province is heading. Most recently plans to privatise liquor sales by the government is what has caught my attention. The facts are all out there that prove this a bad idea and is a loss to the taxpayers of this province as we are giving away an asset for nothing. Not to mention the loss of jobs. I ask you why are we giving away a proven money maker when the province's finances are in such rough shape and why has there been no studies on the governments part to prove this option of privatization they are going down is "revenue neutral"?

Just because the current government states it ran this as a campaign issue does not mean there was enough consideration and public feedback taken into account. The loss to rural saskatchewan will be a deep blow to their already struggling economies and the loss of money going to the public purse will lessen. As a saskatchewan citizen i stand up for crown corporations and the services they provide to the great people of this province. I ask you to reconsider privatizing liquor sales so that the revenue they generate can go back to the people of this province.

Respectfully submitted,

Ryan Frerichs
