QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mr. D'Autremont asked the Government Question No. 511, which was answered by Hon. Len Taylor:

To the Minister Responsible for Saskatchewan Assessment Management Agency: With reference to the reassessment that SAMA will be undertaking this fiscal year: (1) What are the preliminary proposals and will they be released to the public? (2) What is the expected impact on property taxes? (3) When is it expected that reassessment will come into effect? (4) Will public hearings be held prior to the recommendations being implemented? (5) If so, when and in what communities will these hearings be held?

Answer:

- (1) The Saskatchewan Assessment Management Agency (SAMA) reviews the Saskatchewan Assessment Manual and determines if changes are required, in the context of the statutory four year revaluation cycle. The manual sets out the policies and rules applicable to valuation of properties.

The manual is established by Board Order pursuant to The Assessment Management Agency Act and the order is published in the Gazette. The manual for the 2005 revaluation was prepared on January 22, 2003, and amended by Board Order after that date (the latest occurring on March 25, 2004). The manual was first made available to the public in February, 2003.

SAMA released preliminary fair value assessment figures, to those municipalities for which it provides assessment valuation services, at the end of April/early May 2004. Municipalities that do not employ SAMA could have obtained the same information from their independent assessment valuation services provider.

SAMA and the cities calculate taxable assessments from fair value assessments following the establishment of provincial percentages of value. These were announced by government for 2005 in October 2004. The decision on when to provide assessment notices is a local municipal government decision, but it is anticipated that most will be delivered to ratepayers early in 2005.

- (2) The final impact on property taxes from the assessment changes associated with the revaluation will not be known until local municipal governments and school divisions have made the necessary mill rate and the tax distribution decisions.

Projections of the impacts of the 2005 revaluation, based on the percentages of value adopted for the 2001 revaluation, were posted in June 2004 at <http://www.municipal.gov.sk.ca>.

- (3) The new assessment values will come into effect on January 1, 2005.

- (4) SAMA has several advisory committees (Rural, Urban, Cities, and Commercial) with numerous private organizations and local governments represented. The committees were consulted regarding the manual changes before the Board Order was made by the SAMA Board of Directors to adopt the 2002 base-year manual for use with the 2005 revaluation.

In preparation for the 2005 revaluation, the department of Government Relations consulted with numerous organizations concerning percentages of value and local tax tools. Local government associations, representing municipal governments and school divisions and their constituents, were consulted in June, 2004.
