Question no. 279 (Ms. Sarauer):

To the Minister of Corrections and Policing, (a) what is the percentage of inmates who have a diagnosed mental illness, and (b) of those inmates diagnosed with a mental illness, how many suffer from an addiction?

Answer:

Corrections does not have an electronic or automated tracking system that details the number of offenders who have both a mental illness and a substance abuse disorder. In 2015, Corrections undertook collecting a one-day static sample (a snapshot) of the mental health of the custody population. When completing the snapshot, collection did not include both mental illnesses and addictions—the snapshot was done in an attempt to keep the question straightforward and the answer as accurate as possible. Because of the lack of an automated system, information collection was done manually by nursing staff by reviewing paper files (which was a highly labour intensive and time consuming undertaking). This undertaking is not easily replicated. Given the mandate and first priority for nurses is to provide direct services to offenders the response to the written question is based on the 2015 mental health snapshot data.

Mental Health:

Based on the 2015 one-day snapshot of the mental health of the custody population:

- 17.6% of adults in custody had been diagnosed by a health professional with a mental illness or mental health problem; 5.7% of the custody population had a diagnosis of a severe mental illness (schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, or major depression).
- 18.8% of the diagnosed adults in custody had three or more diagnoses, not including any substance use disorder, indicating a high proportion of complex mental health problems.

Addictions-based Information:

Based on standardized risk assessments completed on offenders at the time of intake:

- 73% of sentenced male inmates reported frequent abuse of drugs or alcohol resulting in serious problems, and
- 89% of sentenced female inmates reported negative impact of substance abuse in two or more areas of their lives.

- (a) it has a scheduled closure date set for September 1, 2018.
- (b) remaining inmates will be transferred to other reduced custody facilities by August 31, 2018.
